

Accommodating rising powers past, present, and future /

Paul, T. V.

Cambridge University Press,
[2016]

Monografía

As the world enters the third decade of the twenty-first century, far-reaching changes are likely to occur. China, Russia, India, and Brazil, and perhaps others, are likely to emerge as contenders for global leadership roles. War as a system-changing mechanism is unimaginable, given that it would escalate into nuclear conflict and the destruction of the planet. It is therefore essential that policymakers in established as well as rising states devise strategies to allow transitions without resorting to war, but dominant theories of International Relations contend that major changes in the system are generally possible only through violent conflict. This volume asks whether peaceful accommodation of rising powers is possible in the changed international context, especially against the backdrop of intensified globalization. With the aid of historic cases, it argues that peaceful change is possible through effective long-term strategies on the part of both status quo and rising powers. -- Provided by publisher

As the world enters the third decade of the twenty-first century, far-reaching changes are likely to occur. China, Russia, India, and Brazil, and perhaps others, are likely to emerge as contenders for global leadership roles. War as a system-changing mechanism is unimaginable, given that it would escalate into nuclear conflict and the destruction of the planet. It is therefore essential that policymakers in established as well as rising states devise strategies to allow transitions without resorting to war, but dominant theories of International Relations contend that major changes in the system are generally possible only through violent conflict. This volume asks whether peaceful accommodation of rising powers is possible in the changed international context, especially against the backdrop of intensified globalization. With the aid of historic cases, it argues that peaceful change is possible through effective long-term strategies on the part of both status quo and rising powers. -- Provided by publisher

<https://rebiunoda.pro.baratznet.cloud:28443/OpacDiscovery/public/catalog/detail/b2FpOmNlbGVicmF0aW9uOmVzLmJhcmF0ei5yZW4vMjM1Mzc0Njk>

Título: Accommodating rising powers past, present, and future edited by T.V. Paul, McGill University

Editorial: Cambridge, United Kingdom Cambridge University Press [2016]

Descripción física: 1 recurso electrónico

Mención de serie: CUP ebooks

Bibliografía: Incluye referencias bibliográficas e índice

Contenido: The accommodation of rising powers in world politics / T.V. Paul -- Realism, balance of power, and power transitions / Steven E. Lobell -- Globalization, interdependence, and major power accommodation / Philip

Potter -- What would E.H. Carr say? : how international institutions address peaceful political change / Krzysztof J. Pelc -- The responsibility to accommodate : ideas and change / Mlada Bukovansky -- Seizing the day or passing the baton? : power, illusion, and the British Empire / Ali Zeren and John A. Hall -- The U.S. accommodation of communist China / Lorenz M. Lüthi -- Accommodation and containment : Great Britain and Germany prior to the two World Wars / Martin Claar and Norrin M. Ripsman -- Did the U.S. and the allies fail to accommodate Japan in the 1920s and the 1930s? / Jeffrey W. Taliaferro -- China's bargaining strategies for a peaceful accommodation after the Cold War / Kai He -- Partial accommodation without conflict : India as a rising link power / Aseema Sinha -- Brazil : revising the status quo with soft power? / David R. Mares -- Prospects for the accommodation of a resurgent Russia / Nicola Contessi -- Great Power accommodation and the processes of international politics / Theodore McLauchlin

Detalles del sistema: Forma de acceso: World Wide Web

ISBN: 9781316460191 1316460193 9781107134041 1107134048 9781107592230 1107592232

Autores: Paul, T. V.

Baratz Innovación Documental

- Gran Vía, 59 28013 Madrid
- (+34) 91 456 03 60
- informa@baratz.es