

The bashful batchelor : containing the loyal courtship of a squire's daughter of dorsetshire. shewing how she fell in love with thomas a serving-man who lived in the family of a knight within two miles of her father'[s] house ;
where they now enjoy each other, to their hearts content

University of California, Santa Barbara, The Early Modern Center, 2008

Ballads.

Monografía

<https://rebiunoda.pro.baratznet.cloud:38443/OpacDiscovery/public/catalog/detail/b2FpOmNlbGVicmF0aW9uOmVzLmJhemF0ei5yZW4vMjQ3MzI3Mjc>

Título: The bashful batchelor containing the loyal courtship of a squire's daughter of dorsetshire. shewing how she fell in love with thomas a serving-man who lived in the family of a knight within two miles of her father'[s] house ; where they now enjoy each other, to their hearts content

Editorial: Santa Barbara, CA University of California, Santa Barbara, The Early Modern Center 2008

Descripción física: 1 online resource

Variantes del título: First line Woman. THomas, why come you not

Nota general: TEI file encoded by the English Broadside Ballad Archive Editorial Team Title from English Broadside Ballad Archive (queried Mon, 25 Jun 2012 15:10:17 PDT) EMC no. 30129 C.20.f.8(21) ESTC no. R226989 Original publication date: c. 1671-1702

Versión original: Reproduction of Original Manuscript British Library. Roxburghe Ballads. London, UK, 2008

Financiación: Sponsored by the University of California, Santa Barbara and The Early Modern Center

Materia: Ballads, English- 17th century Broadside- 17th century Ballads, English.

Entidades: University of California (Santa Bárbara). Early Modern Center

Baratz Innovación Documental

- Gran Vía, 59 28013 Madrid
- (+34) 91 456 03 60
- informa@baratz.es