

Nazi Junkies [the hidden history of drugs in the Third Reich /

Nazi Junkies (Serie de televisión)

Material Proyectable

Inspired by Norman Ohler's book, Blitzed: Drugs In The Third Reich, the film reveals how both Hitler and Nazi Germany were heavily addicted to drugs. Part 1: Hitler the junkie - "Cocaine, opiates, steroids... Hitler consumed an assortment of drugs as he ruled over Nazi Germany. The secret journals of Dr. Theódore Morell, Hitler's personal physician, have suggested that the Fuhrer was a full-fledged addict. Archival documents and testimonies from historians, scientists and World War II specialists reveal new evidence showing the true extent of his addiction."--Container. Part 2. Nazi junkies - "The year is 1939. Hitler plunges Europe into war. In a few weeks the Wehrmacht brings Poland to its knees and crushes the French Army. Nothing seems to be able to stop the Reich, and yet only two years later, their armed forces are destroyed in Russia. How can such a collapse be explained? ... on the battlefield the drug was systematically used to keep soldiers awake and to maximize their endurance and stamina."--Carátula
