Analítica

In the XXI century, superstition and belief in intangible elements that could dominate our lives continue to have an important weight in the crime news. Frequently, criminals use it to subdue the victim, threatening with evils shipped directly from the afterlife. In others cases, what begins as an exorcism ritual that aims to help the victim, ends in violent death. And sometimes the criminals themselves suffer the effects of those beliefs. In this article, the author lists some of the most shocking cases of recent decades
