Analítica

The aim of the present project of innovation and improvement of university teaching was to approach the teaching of the subjects of Fundamentals of Athletics and Specialization of Athletics from a gamified perspective, with a clear commitment to education in values and social responsibility. Theoretical and practical sessions were applied through a methodological approach different from the traditional one based on lectures and a technical approach with the application of direct command during the teaching practices. Based on the positive results obtained in the satisfaction surveys with the classes and the good assimilation of the contents in both subjects, the use of gamification resources (e.g. blog, previous narrative, aesthetics, work dynamics, mechanics such as points, badges, motivating evaluation systems) with a link to the values of respect, participation, autonomy, helping others and transfer to real life using for example the methodology of the Personal and Social Responsibility Model is recommended
