

Afganistán y la iniciativa de la nueva ruta de la seda [

2012

text (article)

Analítica

The United States has embraced the New Silk Route initiative as a central element in its economic and social policy for Afghanistan. This initiative is part of its Transition strategy in the country in a moment that the Transition process has already started. This initiative tries to increase regional connectivity as well as economic prosperity and stability in Central Asia through trade and investment. However, many challenges make out of the New Silk Route initiative a difficult project to put into practice
