Analítica

Nowadays it is very common for people to use social networks to share their personal information, experiences, hotographs, to propose debate issues, to make friends or to meet again with old partners. However, the users of these kinds of platforms sometimes do not know what happens with the information they upload to these networks, who is able to access it, if the information is deleted from the servers when the user deletes himself or which rights protects their data privacy. The article developes an approximate study about the legal regulation which protects users and forces the providers of the services to guarantee our privacy on the network and also not to allow children to use this platforms. Likewise, two matters have been analysed, the problems does the use of the social network cause and what the suggestions and rules will appear in the future could bring solutions for finding the use of this mass media easy, clear and safe
