Analítica

The purpose of this text is to analyze the progress and challenges of the current public policy for psychosocial care within the framework of the Colombian post-conflict after the signing of the Final Agreement, for this, a descriptive analysis of the public policy for psychosocial care was carried out both For victims of the armed conflict as well as for the current reincorporation process, then a descriptive and analytical analysis of the psychosocial strategy designed within the FARC-EP after the Final Agreement and designed from her experience as a guerrilla in the framework of the armed conflict is carried out. and the current social political orientations during the transition to peace. The methodological design used is ethnography with a data analysis with a narrative approach complemented with documentary sources. From there, legal gaps and the absence of guarantees of the right to full health for the ex-combatant population were identified today, therefore, the guiding question of this research is: What have been the advances and challenges of the implementation of the Comprehensive Health and Psychosocial Care Program for Victims of the Armed Conflict -PAPSIVI- and its impact or relationship on the psychosocial care for the signatory population of La Paz?
