Analítica

During the years 1900 - 1910 the opera was a popular art form in Valencian society. The large number of functions and coliseums of the city of Valencia in their operas representing proscenium testify to this. But, however, from the second decade of the twentieth century witnessed a sharp decline of this genre, especially after the First World War and the advent of cinematography. Closing the Teatro Real in Madrid and the economic depression of 1929 will be the last two factors that lead to the opera almost disappearance in Valencia
