

"Día sin Carne" en la ciudad de Medellín: aspectos constitucionales [

2018

text (article)

Analítica

With the aim of being linked to the international campaign "Meatless Monday", the Council of the city of Medellín approved a standard (Agreement 076 of 2017) that in Article 1 restricts the supply of meat one day a week in official schools, the community kitchens, gardens and restaurants of the municipal entities. This restriction is based on the assumption that the Municipality of Medellín will promote a green and sustainable diet, however, this Article clearly violates the fundamental rights of Colombians, especially children and adolescents. This document explains the violated norms and the fundamentals of this violation, it is concluded that the fundamental rights of children and adolescents cannot be violated, and even Less with arguments that Lead of itself a huge political and economic burden as is sustainable development, as it is maintained by the "Meatless Day" norm in the city of Medellín
