Analítica

The proclamation of the moderated Law of municipalities in 1840 caused a stir of enormous dimensions in the Spanish liberal regime. The Progressive Party decided to carry out a revolution as a consequence of feeling threatened by said law and by a package of new laws promoted by the moderated party whose final objective was to push the enlightenment out of the positions of power that the enlightened had articulated: the city councils, the press, and the National Militia. The aim of this project is to analyze in general terms this uprising that took place in Spain, to, afterwards, look further into Huesca's 1840 Revolution by means of its city council and of the "Junta" that was established in the month of September of that same year
