Welcome to the surrealist cabaret by Argentina's answer to Tom Waits, Daniel Melingo, whose songs and clarinet tell the poetry of the shallows, of love and vagabond pathways. Under his black hat shines crazy eyes while he fills his offbeat tango with candomblé, milonga and Mediterranean accents. Displaying real charisma, he inhabits the scene through a deep voice that carries the weight of many implied sleepless nights. A generous host, Melingo includes guests such as Vinicio Capossela, an emblematic figure of Italian folk rock and Juliette, a free spirit whose guile capsizes "Tango del Vampiro." We also encounter the timeless "Volver a los diecisiete" by Chilean Violeta Sandoval and Naïssam Jalal's flute playing, whose grace matches a that of a text by Garcia Lorca or the Quechua poet Atahualpa Yupanqui ... Very classy. Jeanne Lacaile
