

Beneficial microorganisms in food and nutraceuticals /

Liong, Min-Tze.

Springer,
2015.

Monografía

<https://rebiunoda.pro.baratznet.cloud:38443/OpacDiscovery/public/catalog/detail/b2FpOmNlbgVicmF0aW9uOmVzLmJhcmF0ei5yZW4vMzIxNDUwMTM>

Título: Beneficial microorganisms in food and nutraceuticals editor Min-Tze Liong.

Editorial: Switzerland Springer 2015.

Descripción física: VIII, 290 p. il. col. 24 cm

Mención de serie: Microbiology Monographs 27

Contenido: Índice de contenidos: From Traditional Knowledge to an Innovative Approach for Bio-preservation in Food by Using Lactic Acid Bacteria -- Health Properties of Traditional Fermented Mongolian Milk Foods -- Microencapsulation of Probiotic Bacteria -- Effects of Incorporation of Lactic Acid Bacteria on Microbiological Quality and Shelf Life of Raw Satar -- Leuconostoc spp. as Starters and Their Beneficial Roles in Fermented Foods -- Fermented Soymilk as a Nutraceutical-- Fermented Fish Products in Sudan -- Consumerism of Probiotics in China -- Probiotics in Dairy Products -- Current Trends and Future Perspectives on Functional Foods and Nutraceuticals -- Roles of Probiotics on Lifelong Diversifications of Gut Microbiota -- Food Colorant from Microorganisms.

ISBN: 978-3-319-79455-6

Materia: Nutrición Microbiología

Autores: Liong, Min-Tze.

Baratz Innovación Documental

- Gran Vía, 59 28013 Madrid
- (+34) 91 456 03 60
- informa@baratz.es