Analítica

In this essay, we explore the concepts of morality and wisdom and the relationships that exist between them. Our approach is anthropological and social. We note that moral behaviors are tacitly or explicitly agreed social constructs for just and peaceful coexistence among members of a community. ese social constructs obey both to universal anthropological dynamics, as well as to differentiating peculiarities of the human groups by their historical-cultural and territorial conditions. Particular moral behaviors change and evolve at the same time as social changes caused by better or worse quality of life conditions. In the contemporary globalized society are the Tecnociencias the main causes of the changes. e wisdom knowledge comes in aid to the reason to orient correctly the moral changes. We add to the importance of the habitat, of the ecological, in the conguration of the moral and sapiential values, something generally ignored by the majority of the authors of the practical philosophy
