

Aggregate training for the safety impaired [safety training for everyone else

Cullen, E. T. (Elaine T.)

Educational films.

Internet videos.

Material Projectable

Provides a lighthearted demonstration of the grave dangers of working on mining sites and in mines by following two new hires through their first week on the job

<https://rebiunoda.pro.baratznet.cloud:38443/OpacDiscovery/public/catalog/detail/b2FpOmNlbGVicmF0aW9uOmVzLmJhcmF0ei5yZW4vMzM4NDI0OTY>

Título: Aggregate training for the safety impaired electronic resource] :] safety training for everyone else

Editorial: [Atlanta, Ga.] NIOSH, National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health [2007]

Descripción física: 1 online resource (35 min., 6 sec.) sound, color, RM file

Variantes del título: Aggregate training for the safety impaired

Nota general: Video file available in both streaming and downloadable formats Title from title frame (viewed July 5, 2012) "Presented by: NIOSH ; Spokane Research Lab ; Arizona State Mine Inspectors Office"--title frame "2007"--Video home page "NIOSH Pub. #2007-134d"--Video home page

Créditos: Written and produced by: Elaine Cullen

Detalles del sistema: System requirements: RealPlayer Mode of access: Internet via the NIOSH Video web site

Materia: Mine safety- United States Aggregate industry- United States- Safety measures Mineral industries- Employees- Health and hygiene- United States

Autores: Cullen, E. T. (Elaine T.)

Entidades: National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health Spokane Research Laboratory (National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health) Arizona. Office of State Mine Inspector

Baratz Innovación Documental

- Gran Vía, 59 28013 Madrid
- (+34) 91 456 03 60
- informa@baratz.es

