Analítica

We find ourselves today in a situation wherein the concept of Jihad is the most extreme in the history of Islam. That indicates that the Muslim world is going through a phase of definition of its future whose outcome is not yet glimpsed. Therefore, it is necessary to analyze the nature of jihadism placing Islam in its true historical, social, political and religious context, as a way to demonstrate that the concept of Jihad responds to some root causes that have been shaped over the centuries. It is therefore necessary to break through the historical analysis, the yihadist discourse that justifies the execution of terrorist acts on the basis of democratic systems demonization and the de-humanization of all those considered outside the Islamic law. Only Insisting on the historical facts, it will be possible to de-construct the idea deemed as indisputable, that explains jihadist terrorism as a defensive reaction of the Islam, almost as a necessity, from political of aggression carried out both by the West, and the Arab states
