

History of the Gatling Gun Detachment, Fifth Army Corps, at Santiago, with a few unvarnished truths concerning that expedition. [

Kansas City, MO : Hudson-Kimberly Publishing Co.,
 Kansas City, MO : Hudson-Kimberly Publishing Co.,

Textual; Illustrations Maps; Photographs

Monografía

The history of the Gatling Gun Detachment, Fifth Army Corps, is to a certain extent the history of the Santiago campaign. The detachment was organized on the spur of the moment, to utilize material which would otherwise have been useless, and was with the Fifth Corps in all the campaign. It participated in all the fighting of that campaign, except the fight at La Guasimas, and was disbanded upon the return of the Fifth Corps to Montauk. Whatever hardships were endured by the Fifth Corps were shared by this detachment; whatever dangers were faced by the Fifth Corps were faced by it also; where the hottest fighting occurred this detachment went in and stayed; and at the surrender it was paraded, to use the words of General Shafter, "Upon that portion of the line which it occupied so promptly and defended so well." This story is to commemorate the gallantry of the enlisted men who helped to make history and revolutionize tactics at Santiago

<https://rebiunoda.pro.baratznet.cloud:28443/OpacDiscovery/public/catalog/detail/b2FpOmNlbGVicmF0aW9uOmVzLmJhcmF0ei5yZW4vMzQ2MDg2MjM>

Título: History of the Gatling Gun Detachment, Fifth Army Corps, at Santiago, with a few unvarnished truths concerning that expedition. [electronic resource]

Editorial: Kansas City, MO : Hudson-Kimberly Publishing Co. 1898

Tipo Audiovisual: Gatling Gun Detachment Expeditions Fifth Army Corps Santiago de Cuba (Cuba) Campaigns, Military

Nota general: General Military History

Restricciones de acceso: Open access content. Open access content star

Calidad de los datos: Conforms To:. Combined Arms Research Library Digital Library

Condiciones de uso y reproducción: Approved for public release; distribution is unlimited

Lengua: English

Baratz Innovación Documental

- Gran Vía, 59 28013 Madrid
- (+34) 91 456 03 60
- informa@baratz.es