Analítica

The Malvinas War has raised divergent concerns within the argentine social sciences and humanities. The proposal of this article is to add a new question to the growing field of studies on this topic in order to think about how the Malvinas War Veteran non-commissioned officers (NCO) who are instructors at the "Escuela de Suboficiales de la Armada Argentina" share the knowledge acquired in the battlefield with the new generations of NCOs. The objective is to contribute to the production of knowledge on how the actors give value and meaning to their own war experience in the training of future militars through an ethnographic analysis based on a question that organizes the argument of this article: How is the experience of the Malvinas War in 1982 taught at the Escuela" de Suboficiales de la Armada (NCO School of the Navy)"?
