Analítica

This article aims to develop and analyze my artistic project #body_writer. This work in progress, show the way in which fluid identities that escape from rigid social norms, look for space and time according to different ways of living and being. Internet, social networks, and current virtual spaces are available as resources to generate space and time, this enhances the notion of person, empowering and raising it in order to satisfy new ways of relationships and experience among its users. In this way, #body_writer uses an interdependent dialog between art and technology, using current electronic communication devices as facilitators or enablers of an universal communication between the subject and the digital version of itself, both alive and fed.
