Analítica

In this work we analyze the first disagreements between Jung and Freud and the causes that led to the rupture. We will study the first academic disagreements, especially in the early Jung's works related to libido and sexuality that would lead to the future development of the Analytical Psychology. On a personal level, we will focus on the approach supported by the Swiss physician regarding the elements rejected by the classic psychoanalysis thesis, especially in his analysis on the paranormal phenomena, the alchemical studies and the interpretation of mandalas from a psychological paradigm
