Analítica

Around the middle of the 19th century a big debate on the conveniente or not to reform orthography according to phonetic or "philosophic" criteria adapted to pronunciation, with the aim to make learning and the spread of the written language easier, was opened. These reforming proposals were developed at the same time as those by Bello and Sarmiento in some Latin American countries and coincide in time with the establishment of the orthography introduced by the RAE. Along with these innovative limes, the Academia Literaria y Científica (Literay and Scientific Academy) of teachers of primary and higher education of Madrid, put it into practice in schools. The system of these "neógrafos" described in the Diccionario nacional (1846-47), by R. J. Domínguez, in different entries, where some of his proposals are assessed, aaccepted and applied
