Analítica

In this work I present and discuss the "narrative of the new exile" based on an analysis of the forms of symbolic (re)production of expatriation in the case of four Brazilians who represent, as the English newspaper The Guardian pointed out, "a new generation of political exiles in Brazil". It is important to highlight that the four characters became known mainly for the political agenda they presented during the 2018 electoral campaign period and, upon leaving the country after the worsening of persecution situations, they began to use their virtual spaces as forms of connection with the national political scene. The analysis of the "narrative of the new exile" also takes on new meanings that re-update the memory of exile during the military dictatorship, constituting a space for enunciating the justification (explanation of exile) and the claim to legitimacy
