

"Resulta aberrante su actuar": Mujeres acusadas de delincuencia organizada [

2023

text (article)

Analítica

Between 2017 and 2021, the number of women accused of organized crime in Mexico doubled and it is now the most common crime among women serving time in federal prisons. However, a few academic studies have focused on women accused of this type of crime, and those that do exist tend to ignore the gender of the accused. And when gender is considered, the research often offers a dichotomous and superficial perspective of women, portraying them as "victims" of their respective organizations or as "perpetrators" of illegal acts who actively and voluntarily choose to participate in organized crime. This article is a preliminary study, framed within the sociology of law, that seeks to contribute to the critical analysis of this issue. It explores the scarce evidence available about 67 court rulings for 72 women accused of organized crime, in addition, statistical data from the Instituto Nacional de Estadística y Geografía (inegi) was used. This analysis presents two main findings. First, the offence of organized crime serves as a substitute for an investigation: charges of organized crime allow women to be arrested and detained without pre-trial investigation. Second, most analyses are based on the untenable basis of the "victim"/"perpetrator" divide which tends to over simplify women's diverse and complex roles in organized crime groups

Between 2017 and 2021, the number of women accused of organized crime in Mexico doubled and it is now the most common crime among women serving time in federal prisons. However, a few academic studies have focused on women accused of this type of crime, and those that do exist tend to ignore the gender of the accused. And when gender is considered, the research often offers a dichotomous and superficial perspective of women, portraying them as "victims" of their respective organizations or as "perpetrators" of illegal acts who actively and voluntarily choose to participate in organized crime. This article is a preliminary study, framed within the sociology of law, that seeks to contribute to the critical analysis of this issue. It explores the scarce evidence available about 67 court rulings for 72 women accused of organized crime, in addition, statistical data from the Instituto Nacional de Estadística y Geografía (inegi) was used. This analysis presents two main findings. First, the offence of organized crime serves as a substitute for an investigation: charges of organized crime allow women to be arrested and detained without pre-trial investigation. Second, most analyses are based on the untenable basis of the "victim"/"perpetrator" divide which tends to over simplify women's diverse and complex roles in organized crime groups

<https://rebiunoda.pro.baratznet.cloud:28443/OpacDiscovery/public/catalog/detail/b2FpOmNlbGVicmF0aW9uOmVzLmJhcmF0ei5yZW4vMzU4OTYyNjU>

Editorial: 2023

Tipo Audiovisual: Organized crime war on drugs women justice victims delincuencia organizada guerra contra las drogas mujeres justicia víctimas

Documento fuente: Revista Interdisciplinaria de Estudios de Género de El Colegio de México, ISSN 2395-9185, N°. 9, 2023, pags. 1-35

Nota general: application/pdf

Restricciones de acceso: Open access content. Open access content star

Condiciones de uso y reproducción: LICENCIA DE USO: Los documentos a texto completo incluidos en Dialnet son de acceso libre y propiedad de sus autores y/o editores. Por tanto, cualquier acto de reproducción, distribución, comunicación pública y/o transformación total o parcial requiere el consentimiento expreso y escrito de aquéllos. Cualquier enlace al texto completo de estos documentos deberá hacerse a través de la URL oficial de éstos en Dialnet. Más información: <https://dialnet.unirioja.es/info/derechosOAI> | INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY RIGHTS STATEMENT: Full text documents hosted by Dialnet are protected by copyright and/or related rights. This digital object is accessible without charge, but its use is subject to the licensing conditions set by its authors or editors. Unless expressly stated otherwise in the licensing conditions, you are free to linking, browsing, printing and making a copy for your own personal purposes. All other acts of reproduction and communication to the public are subject to the licensing conditions expressed by editors and authors and require consent from them. Any link to this document should be made using its official URL in Dialnet. More info: <https://dialnet.unirioja.es/info/derechosOAI>

Lengua: Spanish

Enlace a fuente de información: Revista Interdisciplinaria de Estudios de Género de El Colegio de México, ISSN 2395-9185, N°. 9, 2023, pags. 1-35

---

Baratz Innovación Documental

- Gran Vía, 59 28013 Madrid
- (+34) 91 456 03 60
- informa@baratz.es