

The wayward wind /

Bingham, Ashleigh

Robert Hale,
2007

Australian fiction

Fiction.

Romance fiction.

Romance fiction.

Monografía

"When popular man-about-town, Tom Sinclair, learns that his sister has run away, he sails from London, confident of finding her." "The trail leads him to Morocco where his worst fears for her safety are suddenly confirmed and he becomes stranded in a country where he understands neither the language nor the culture. His quest seems at a dead end - until help is thrust on him from an unexpected and unwelcome source." "Francesca, a sharp-tongued Spanish governess, has spent much of her life in North Africa, and when she learns of Tom's need for a translator, she snatches the opportunity to join the search for his missing sister - while hiding her own grim agenda in the enterprise."--Jacket

<https://rebiunoda.pro.baratznet.cloud:38443/OpacDiscovery/public/catalog/detail/b2FpOmNlbGVicmF0aW9uOmVzLmJhcmF0ei5yZW4vMzgwMjU0MDU>

Título: The wayward wind Ashleigh Bingham

Editorial: London Robert Hale 2007

Descripción física: 1 online resource (224 pages)

ISBN: 9780709084082 hbk.) 0709084080 hbk.)

Materia: Runaway teenagers- Fiction English fiction- Morocco Roman anglais- Maroc English fiction. Runaway teenagers.

Materia Geográfica: Morocco. <https://id.oclc.org/worldcat/entity/E39QbtfRqtjpFY3h4v69ctP7xc>

Baratz Innovación Documental

- Gran Vía, 59 28013 Madrid
- (+34) 91 456 03 60
- informa@baratz.es