Another 100 of the World's Best Houses will take the world by storm - just like the first book in this now-famous Images series (100 of the World's Best Houses). From New York to Milan, from London to Helsinki, from Sydney to Tokyo, the world's imagination was driven to excess by the thought of living in the houses designed by the world's most inspired architects. We expect this new title to consistently haunt best-seller lists around the world from the moment of its release. If the first book was a showcase of the world's best houses, this new book will showcase the best architects on the planet! A good many of the houses are beyond the reach of some of us, but still, from an editorial perspective, each house has been selected for its good taste and ability to enhance a lifestyle within a specific location. The new volume is even more superbly crafted and produced. More than anything, it showcases design excellence and in many, offers inspiration, goals and creates a chance to fantasise about a future home - and what better to aspire to?
