Every two years, Archiprix International invites all university-level courses in the field of architecture, urban planning, and landscape architecture to send in their best graduation projects. A record number of 184 projects from 67 countries from every continent were submitted to Archiprix International 2005. A fascinating collection of designs is presented in this publication, consisting of a book and a dvd. The book contains a selection of the projects including those of the winners and the nominees as well as the jury report. The dvd contains the full crop and besides the project presentations, there is a documentary film and a report of the workshops held in Glasgow in June 2005
